

BlauStein Business Lawyers is pleased to announce the launch of its “International Corporate and Tax Law” Internship Programme.

The selection of candidates was based upon academic background as well as extracurricular accomplishments and activities. The Spring 2013 Programme includes Master of Law students from the following universities: University of Amsterdam, Vrije Universiteit Amsterdam, and Maastricht University.

The internship is a 3-month programme prepared to provide students with an opportunity to conduct research and analysis in real-world settings. Interns are placed in the roles of researchers and experts on corporate and tax law for over 50 jurisdictions. Interns present their findings at the end of each week. In addition to peer review, their work will also be evaluated by the firm's attorney. At the end of the programme, one of the interns will be invited to join the company. The selection is performance-based.
